

No Walther's Products Affected by Toy Recalls

Dear Walther's Dealer,

The recent recall of toys made in China with lead paint has raised some questions about model railroad products — please be assured that no Walther's items are affected by this recall.

We have been working with the same suppliers in China and Europe for nearly 20 years to produce safe, high quality items for your enjoyment.

As part of our commitment to your safety, we have reviewed each company's procedures and documentation to ensure compliance with EN71-3, RoHS, 91/338/EEC and/or ASTM F963 safety standards.

In all cases, our suppliers purchase paint and raw materials only from pre-approved suppliers who have successfully passed an extensive evaluation.

Each supplier also submits random samples of raw materials and paint received at their factories to various independent labs for testing.

In the unlikely event that any product fails a test, plans are in place to take immediate corrective action including isolating and/or destroying affected items, and re-evaluation of the supplier.

Thank you, for sharing your concerns with us, and for your support of Walther's products.
